

Several resources on “hot topics” for our own academy. I do not believe these resources require membership or log-in. Use and enjoy these resources as needed!

Phil Mixer

From: ASM Education [<mailto:education@asmusa.org>]

Sent: Wednesday, September 17, 2014 8:31 AM

To: Mixer, Philip Fowler

Subject: [scholaralumni] Content Now Available for ASM Summer M(icro)OOC Series

Did You Miss the ASM Summer M(icro)OOC Series?

Free professional development webinars for educators now available!

Due to the high demand for the inaugural M(icro)OOC offering, ASM has made all recordings and materials for the summer series available to the public.

Click here to learn more about the M\(icro\)OOCs below.

ASM Guidelines for Biosafety in Teaching Laboratories: Building a Culture of Biosafety	Writing a Teaching Philosophy Statement: Documenting Your Perspective on Teaching	ASM Curriculum Guidelines for Undergraduate Microbiology: Aligning Concepts, Learning Objectives and Assessments
Jeffrey J. Byrd, St. Marys College of Maryland, St. Marys City, MD & Diane M. Hartman, Baylor University, Waco, TX	Loretta Brancaccio-Taras, Kingsborough Community College, Brooklyn, NY	Sue Merkel, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY & Ann Stevens, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA
Sponsored by the ASM Task Committee on Laboratory Safety	Sponsored by the ASM Science Teaching Fellows Steering Committee	Sponsored by the ASM Task Force on Curriculum Guidelines for Undergraduate Microbiology Education

Education Department
American Society for Microbiology
1752 N Street, NW Washington, DC 20036
Questions or concerns? E-mail: education@asmusa.org